Many members, Mr. Dantagnan added have been under the impression that the monthly meetings have been for directors only, but this, he continued, is in error as the Chamber has always held an open invitation to any and all members to attend and to take an active part in the meetings. In conclusion he hoped the membership will find the new meeting time more convenient.

WAVELAND WANDERINGS

by GEORGETTE B. HALL

Everyone who has wanted to get a copy of Paul Bartlett's new book, "When the Owl Cries" will have an opportunity to do so now that the books are on sale. The fortunate ones, this reporter included, had a chance to put in an advance order and our books arrived earlier. Paul Bartlett's novel, commemorates the Fifth Anniversary of the Mexican Revolution. The story of an hacienda family, though not historical, represents the end of hacienda aristocracy and the beginning of a democratic way.

Bartlett is well acquainted with the country he describes so vividly in his novel. He has spent over eight years in Mexico, living in desert areas, mountain villages, tropical islands and remote haciendas.

He has had over forty short stories published in magazines such as Accent, The Kenyon Review, The Literary Review, The Chicago Review and the New Story. Nine of his stories have received honorable mention in Marthe Foley's Best American Short Stories of the Year. He is a recipient of a Huntington Hartford Writing Fellowship for 1960, has taught creative writing at Georgia State College, and has conducted Writer's Conference Workshops.

Paul Bartlett is a skilled craftsman; he knows writing, he knows people; he has woven a novel of haunting significance.

The Bartletts and their son Steven have resided on Waveland's Beach since last spring.

Face Expanding Home Accident Hazard

The increased use of miniature plastic tools and large home built, in swimming pools point up a relatively new, extensive, and fast-growing home accident hazard, Dr. A. L. Gray, Executive Officer of the State Board of Health said today.

Home swimming pools, once reserved for millionaires, now bear price tags within the budget of many American families. Consequently they are being sold at an astounding rate.

"Backyard pools present a special problem because they endow home pool owners with safety responsibilities usually relegated to trained professional pool operators and life guards," said the health officer.

The inability of pool owners to cope with their new duties has shown up in the increase of home pool drownings and pool accidents in the last few years, he said.

Some cities of the nation, alarmed by private swimming pool hazards, have regulated pool construction and use, such as requiring a fence around the pool and prohibiting use after 10 p. m. This will undoubtedly help prevent pool accidents and deaths.

"However, the prime accident prevention responsibility rests with the pool owners," Dr. Gray pointed out. "They must voluntarily set up and enforce certain procedures and rules regarding their pools which apply not only to their own families but to neighbors who will share the pool," he said.

Dr. Gray gave two precautions for small wading pools:

1. Constantly supervise youngsters using small kiddie pools—because it takes only a few seconds for a child to drown.
2. Always empty small plastic pools when children have finished playing.

Owners with built-in home pools should heed these precautions, he said.

Locate the pool near enough to the house so you can easily keep an eye on swimmers and strangers who may wander into the area.

Fence in the pool or pool area.

Shark off shallow and deep sections with buoy lines or other dividers.

Always have rescue devices ready for emergencies—a ring buoy, a shepherd's crook.

Never let anyone swim alone or without supervision.

Be sure someone in the family has had a life-saving course and knows first aid procedure, especially artificial respiration.

Rule out dangerous play such as running around, pushing, ducking, etc.

Don't allow hazardous objects such as bottles and silverware in the pool area.

Sit down with your family and draw up certain safety rules for the pool's use.

STATE AND COMMUNITIES BENEFIT FROM LOCAL DEVELOPMENT EFFORTS

The Hometown Development Program, conducted during the past three years and officially terminated recently when winners of the 1959 competition were announced, has benefited Mississippi both at the grass roots level and on a statewide basis. It is estimated that the program brought over $100 million worth of improvements. Local projects initiated and completed embraced a wide range of helpful activities making our communities more attractive and progressive. Planning, enthusiasm and close teamwork have paid handsome dividends.

Raising sheep and making wool clothing, one of the oldest industries in the world, has been profitable down through the years. It is true that more sheep are raised in the western state, although today the southeast is rapidly expanding in sheep production. This increase is due in part to fertile pastures and mild climate. It is not uncommon for a farmer using proper management, to make $3.00 to $7.00 per head net, on carry-over lambs; but this requires good winter grazing, such as wheat and clover, that will carry seven-head per acre.

grade at St. Joseph's Academy next week is also proudly showing a lovely diamond, a present to her from her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Turcotte, Sr.

Bay High's graduating exercises for the Eighth Grade Class will be held Thursday night at 8:00 P. M. in the school gym. The senior class will have their commencement program in the gym Friday night at 8:00 P. M.

Here...

you'll find a Faith
to live by...

It's quiet inside. Quiet with the peace of centuries, for this is God's House.

Within these walls, the worries which loomed so large outside become less fearsome... for the first time perhaps you see them in their true perspective. If this alone were the reward of Faith, it would be enough. But there is more.

Faith is a source of strength, a reservoir of power that helps you meet the needs of every day. By worshipping with your family each week at your church or synagogue, you're giving them a measure of security no amount of money could buy. The Faith to hope... to grow... to live by.

Build a stronger, richer life...

Worship together every week

CONGRESSIONAL SIDELIGHTS

CONGRESSMAN WM. M. COLLIER

THE MODERN "LIBERAL"

One of the strangest creatures on the present day political scene is the modern self-styled liberal. He is also one of the most vocal.

There is, of course, nothing wrong with being a liberal—one who is progressive, who is concerned about individual rights and liberties, and who always keeps his feet on the ground and his head not too far up in the clouds.

Thomas Jefferson was undoubtedly a genuine liberal, as were many of his confederates who drafted the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. But who can analyze the basic philosophy of Thomas Jefferson that the best governments are the least governed and reconcile it with the modern styled liberal the spending, pump-priming Big Government liberal, who thinks depression measures should be repeated and expanded in times of full employment and prosperity who advocates the consolidation of all government power in a central Federal bureaucracy in Washington. Jefferson in fact called such centralization "toryism in disguise."

The liberals who wrote the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, who fought in the Revolutionary War, Bomar Jaymes said, had nothing in common with the liberals of today.

The liberal of today, he said, talks big, loud and long about his dedication to the protection and preservation of human rights and personal liberties.

And then he proceeds to advocate and support legislation that imposes upon the people regulations, restrictions, and controls which curb their rights and freedoms.

Mr. Jaymes said the liberal professes to have the interest of the people at heart. However, he has supported a policy of big Government spending which has stimulated an inflationary spiral that has destroyed half of the purchasing power of the dollar in the past 20 years.

Another attribute ascribed to the liberal is that he believes that wages should go up but that the prices of goods and services should go down, all at the same time. He believes that business or industrial monopoly should be subject to the antitrust laws—and we all agree with that. But he believes that an equally big and powerful labor organization should not even be subject to the provisions of a Landrum-Griffin labor reform bill aimed at curbing racketeering and protecting the rank and file.

However, it should not be concluded that the modern-day liberal is impractical. He is no ivory-towered dreamer. Rather, he has become a very down-to-earth and effective politician. He has learned that enough minorities make a majority when the general public is apathetic and indifferent. The philosophy that you can get something for nothing so long as you get it from the Government has great appeal to the selfish masses. It is a conservative appeal of the masses, such a mass, he would say, is the danger of the future. The liberal is a rare commodity in a world where the masses are the danger of the future.

Pedestrian Traffic Accidents Continue To Take Heavy Toll

Pedestrian traffic accidents continue to take a heavy toll in Mississippi.

According to the Highway Patrol, nine pedestrians, four 72 years of age or older, have already been killed this April. Three victims had not reached their teens.

The alarming three-week pedestrian toll promoted Public Safety Commissioner Tom Scarbrough to make the following appeal to motorists and pedestrians: "Those who walk and those who drive while using the same streets and highway, have a joint responsibility. The pedestrian must exercise caution but the driver should do his part to insure pedestrian safety."

"This, he or she does by watching closely for pedestrians and by driving defensively upon the approach or overtaking of a walker." The Highway Patrol revealed that most of the fatalities this month occurred during twilight hours. Pedestrian accidents according to type, but frequent to occur while walking along or across a street or highway. Commissioner Scarbrough said the pedestrian should be facing oncoming traffic, step off the paved surface, the approach of a vehicle is safest. Before crossing a highway the pedestrian should look both directions fully and cross only when it is absolutely safe. Drivers, on the other hand, should not overdrive the headlights. Truly safety is a joint responsibility.

How to swallow a bitter pill

First, find a bitter pill. There are so few nowadays. It all started because children, bless 'em, are so good at resisting bad-tasting medicine. You can medicate their chins or hair, but getting the stuff in them is beyond the ken of science. Kids can spit a country mile. So pharmacists began sugar-coating pills, putting medication in capsules, or mixing with sweet syrup. And we soon found that adults, too, like medicine the easy way. So now, most of our prescriptions are quite pleasant to take. If you should run into one of the few bitter ones, believe us, there are good medical reasons for it.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION OF STATE OF MISSISSIPPI

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 43

A concurrent resolution submitting an amendment to Article 7 of the Constitution of the State of Mississippi of 1890 so as to add an additional section thereto, to be numbered "Section 198-A," in order to guarantee that the right of persons to work shall not be denied or abridged on account of membership or nonmembership in a labor union or labor organization, and declaring the public policy of this state in this regard.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, two thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives concurring therein, That the following amendment to Article 7 of the Constitution of the State of Mississippi of 1890 be submitted to the qualified electors of the state for ratification held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in June, 1960, to-wit:

Section 198-A. It is hereby declared to be the public policy of Mississippi that the right of a person or persons to work shall not be denied or abridged on account of membership or nonmembership in any labor union or labor organization. Any agreement or combination between any employer and any labor union or labor organization whereby any person not a member of such union or organization shall be denied the right to work for an employer, or whereby such membership is made a condition of employment or continuation of employment by such employer, or whereby any such union or organization acquires an employment monopoly in any enterprise, is hereby declared to be an illegal combination or conspiracy and against public policy.

No person shall be required by an employer to become a member of any labor union or labor organization as a condition of employment or continuation of employment by such employer. No person shall be required by an employer to abstain or refrain from membership in any labor union or labor organization as a condition of employment or continuation of employment by such employer. No person shall be required by an employer to pay any dues or other charges of any kind to any labor union or labor organization. Any person who may be denied employment or be deprived of continuation of his employment in violation of any paragraph of this section shall be entitled to recover from such employer and from any other person acting in concert with him by appropriate action in the courts of this state such actual damages as he may have sustained by reason of such denial or deprivation of employment.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to any labor contract in force on the effective date of this section, but they shall apply to all contracts thereafter entered into and to any renewal or extension of an existing contract thereafter occurring. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any employer or employee under the jurisdiction of the Federal Railway Labor Act.

Quadrupling Production For Twenty Years

Quadrupling the electric power production capability of the investor-owned electric companies in the next 20 years was reported today by A. Watson, Jr., President of Mississippi Power Company.

Watson was quoted from a study prepared by the Electric Institute, a trade organization of the investor-owned utility companies in the United States. "Since electric power is such a vital factor in our everyday lives, we feel that there is wide public interest in its future. In planning for that future, we must continue to assure ourselves that adequate electric service, the investor-owned electric companies have taken a realistic look at what the country's power needs and supply will be in 1970 and 1980."

The study predicts that by 1970 the electric companies will more than double their present power producing capability, reaching a total of 263 million kilowatts, compared with 127 million kilowatts at the beginning of 1960. By 1980, their capability is expected to reach more than 942 million kilowatts, nearly four times today's total and almost twice that predicted for 1970.

"To provide the greatly expanded power supply systems of the future, it is going to require great sums of money," said Mr. Watson.

"Today, the electric companies have about $43 billion invested in electric plant and equipment. To reach the level forecast for 1970 will require about $52 billion in new construction.

"To double it again by 1980, the companies will have spent on new construction from the end of 1970 through 1980 more than $11 billion. Altogether, then, during the next twenty years, more than $143 billion will be required to expand the electric supply systems, a sum more than three times the present investment."

Mr. Watson pointed out that the electric companies have every confidence in their ability to attract funds in the free market to provide for the power needs of the future. "The growth we foresee is large, but it is in keeping with the pattern already established. Consider how the dimensions of our industry today would seem to the forecasters of twenty years ago, when our investment in electric plant was about $12 billion—less than 1/3 of today's total. As an example, our own Company's investment in Southeast Mississippi has more than doubled since 1950 and will have tripled by the end of 1961."

"We assume that the nation's over-all economic growth will continue at about the same rate as has been maintained since the end of World War II," Mr. Watson said. "Through the resulting development of additional funds in the market it is estimated that the requirements for electric system expansion can be furnished successfully. The trend is toward new heights of prosperity for the people in the United States by 1980, with some 68 million more Americans two decades from now sharing in that prosperity and contributing to it."

Per capita use of electricity, "one of the best indications of a nation's economic strength and the well-being of its people," Mr. Watson said, is expected to reach 7555 kilowatt-hours in 1970, compared to 4525 kilowatt-hours for every man, woman and child in Fresh water fishing hasn't improved much as the water is still bad at most places. However a few were caught over the weekend.

Mayor Scalfide and Sylvan Ladner caught a few perch Sunday.

Speckles are still being caught, although not as plentiful as last week. Sunday there were loads on Telegraph and Cabbage Reeds but most of the speckles were caught off Half Moon.

Joe Kern and Mitch Mitchell caught some beautiful speckles last Friday, some of them weighed 3 1/2 pounds.

Perre Quintini and Al Kingston caught around 165 one day last week.

Took a boat ride with Jim Sharp Sunday morning out to the Keys but didn't do any fishing. He has been putting his boat in shape for some real fishing this summer.

Morris Burg and party were on the Keys Sunday but didn't know how they made out.

Ree Elliott with his granddad Ed Orrie caught some Mackerel last weekend; he is 10 years old and an ardent fisherman; he was proud of his catch.

Larry Larroux and yours truly didn't do so hot with the fresh water fishing Saturday.

Soft crabbing over the week was slowed down again with the cool weather and rough water staying. Few catches were reported, although a few were caught by the never give up ones.

Buck Buehler and Willie Gavagne made a nice catch of green trout and perch Saturday.

Maybelle Smith was seen out soft shell crabbing the other night with Mrs. Gladys Chapman and Mrs. Esther Peppere. Although Mrs. Smith bogged down in the soft mud she caught the largest crab. Better watch your step, girls.

Housewives Liable For Penalties For Failing To Report On Employees

"Housewives who fail to report their maids for Social Security purposes are leaving themselves liable for penalties and interest in addition to the regular tax due when their failure is discovered," according to Mr. James H. Drane, District Manager for Social Security in Gulfport, Miss. "If the maid is covered by Social Security, the reporting is compulsory."

Household employees do not have to work full time to be covered by Social Security. The test is how long they work. Household employees must be reported if they are paid as much as $50 cash wages in a calendar quarter by any employer. The value of room, food, clothing or other items furnished are not counted as cash.

Failure of housewives to comply with the law may mean denial of Social Security benefits to household employees at retirement age, or when they become disabled, or on her shoulder.

HAS BRIDAL SHOWER

Spring blossoms and fern decorated the E. J. Nelson home when Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. William Nelson entertained at a bridal shower for Miss Rose Marie Nelson last Sunday.

The refreshment table covered with a white cloth draped at the corners and trimmed with roses and fern, was centered with a two-tiered cake decorated with a miniature bride and roses.

Gifts were presented the honoree in a decorated tea cart.

Miss Nelson chose for the occasion a pink cotton tulle dress and Mrs. Charles Spiers pinned a pink carnation corsage on her shoulder.
